

Travel farther west and visit The Bernards Inn in Bernardsville, which opened its doors in 1907, when life expectancy was 47, only eight percent of all homes had electricity and Teddy Roosevelt was president.

Today, The Bernards Inn's historic mission-style building welcomes al fresco diners through an elegant, canopied façade onto the elevated outdoor terrace, where they may dine at leisure on critically acclaimed, progressive American cuisine from the Inn's award-winning restaurant.
